

CIB - Consorzio Italiano Biogas aggregates and represents the agricultural biogas and biomethane value chain in Italy with more than 970 members.

Established in March 2006, CIB provides information to its members to improve, optimize and innovate biogas production processes, promoting greener and more efficient low-carbon agricultural practices through its flagship initiative Biogasdoneright® and the Farming for Future project “10 Actions to Farm the Future”.

CIB brings together farmers who operate biogas plants, industrial companies that provide equipment and technology, companies involved in agriculture, consulting, mechanization, transportation, and agricultural research centers and associations that provide data and promote anaerobic digestion in agriculture. CIB is also a founding member of EBA - the European Biogas Association and a member of the European Gas for Climate Consortium.
